LGBT, LGBTQ, LGBTQQIA, QUILTBAGS. Every day, it seems that there are more and more letters. What are some of the new labels? How are people using and experiencing sexual orientation and gender in 2018?

Given these developments, what do you need to know to be a culturally competent faculty member in this area? And how can faculty foster teaching and inclusive learning environments which facilitate the success of all students, whatever their backgrounds and identities?

Bring your questions and an open mind.

Sept. 14, 2018
10:00 - 11:30 AM
UH 3030

RSVP by email:
teachers@lmu.edu

Robyn Ochs is an educator, speaker, grassroots activist and editor. Her writings have been published in numerous bi, women’s studies, multicultural, and LGBTQ+ anthologies and she has taught university courses in gender and sexuality studies.

An advocate for the rights of people of all orientations and genders to live safely, openly and with full access and opportunity, Robyn’s work focuses on increasing awareness and understanding of complex identities, and mobilizing people to be powerful allies to one another within and across identities and social movements.